

Former Southern Official Is Named Coal Administrator

Spencer Heads Distribution Committee Temporarily, Pending Developments in Strike Situation.

THREE RAILROADS PUT EMBARGO ON FREIGHT

L. & N., C. & O. and N. & W. Will Accept No Freight Except Foods, Live Stock and Fuel.

Washington, July 28.—Secretary Hoover's coal distribution committee is now complete with the appointment of Henry C. Spencer to act temporarily as federal coal administrator, pending developments in the strike situation.

Spencer, formerly vice president of the Southern railway, general purchasing agent of the wartime railroad administration, and in charge of national coal distribution after dissolution of the old fuel administration, becomes administrative member of the coal distribution committee recently named by President Harding.

Driving ahead toward the work of both obtaining and moving coal, Hoover announced that the following have thus far been designated as members of the coal operators' advisory committee, under the chairmanship of C. E. Bockus, of Virginia: E. L. Douglas, Kentucky; George S. Francis, Pennsylvania; E. C. Mahan, Tennessee; W. J. Magee, and E. E. West, both of West Virginia; C. E. Tuttle, to advise on lake and northwest movements, and Leabron S. Willard on bunker and tidewater movements.

To Stop Profiteering. The governors of 23 states, in response to Hoover's request, have wired their intention to erect the necessary machinery to control profiteering and distribution of coal within their states. Kansas already has an establishment under its industrial code and Hoover does not regard it as necessary to establish coal control in the inter-mountain and Pacific states as they have supplies of coal and fuel oil.

Meantime, acting on embargo orders of the interstate commerce commission, three coal-hauling railroads—the Louisville and Nashville, Chesapeake and Ohio, and the Norfolk and Western—have ordered acceptance of no freight except foodstuffs, live stock and fuel. The first named road serves the Kentucky coal fields, the chief source of supply now for Chicago and the middle west. An increased movement of non-union fuel is now expected as a result of the embargoes. The roads have notified the interstate commerce commission that the embargo orders will be modified as rapidly as the situation permits.

ADMINISTRATION PLANS NO FURTHER STEPS. Washington, July 28.—Confident that enough coal will be produced eventually to meet the country's needs, regardless of strikes on railroads and in the mines, President Harding, it was said today at the white house, contemplates no new step in the coal strike situation. The administration, it was said, will of course interpose no objection should the governor of any state adopt

FOUR U. S. U-BOATS REPORTED MISSING BY LINER CAPTAIN

Flotilla of Twelve Left Los Angeles, But Only Eight Are Reported in Convoy.

SMOKING SUBMARINE IGNORES SHIP'S SIGNAL

Message From Tender, Ordering Taking of Tow Line From Underwater, Is Intercepted.

Los Angeles, July 28.—Four submarines which left Los Angeles Tuesday for Hampton Roads, as part of a flotilla of 12, scheduled for decommissioning today, were reported missing yesterday off the lower California coast, south of Eureka.

The craft said to be missing were the L-5, L-6, L-7, and L-8, all of which were built at Long Beach, Cal., during the war.

The story of the apparent disappearance of the four submarines was brought to Los Angeles by the liner, City of Honolulu, Captain Thomas W. Sheridan, from New York. Captain Sheridan said that yesterday, he sighted a cloud of smoke some distance away and changed its course to learn the cause.

Signals Unanswered. "It was a submarine, badly smoking," he said, "it made no answer to our signals."

"Later," continued Captain Sheridan, "we signalled the tender Beaver, which had the submarines in tow. At first she made no answer to our signals, but later responded to our semaphore offer of assistance. She said she had eight submarines in tow and needed no help."

A message received at the submarine base at Los Angeles harbor from Commander Roy L. Stover, in command of the submarine flotilla, stated he had eight submarines in tow. The message contained no reference to the other four.

The submarine base also intercepted a message from the tender Beaver to the L-8, ordering her to stand by to take a tow line from the L-5.

Officers Puzzled. Officers at the submarine base tonight were said to be unable to account for the two craft or the other two of the L type reported missing. It was believed definite information concerning the vessels would not be received here before tomorrow, when the flotilla was due at Tacoma, Mexico, to take in tow the submarine S-32 recently disabled.

The other eight craft in the flotilla were the H-2, H-3, H-4, and H-5, H-6, H-7, H-8, and H-9.

Captain Sheridan said he counted only eight submarines when he met the flotilla.

DID NO SHOOTING, DECLARES ALLEN

Defendant in A. B. & A. Riot Case Says He Did Not Even Have Gun on That Day.

Taking the stand in his own defense, G. P. Allen, yard employee of the A. B. & A., on trial in superior court for the murder of Dan Walton, declared Friday that he did not fire any shots, and, in fact, was not armed during the affray, which occurred at the A. B. & A. yards May 6.

The case will probably go to the jury late Saturday afternoon, following the conclusion of rebuttal testimony, which, it is believed, will take an hour, and argument of both sides, which will consume five hours, two and one-half hours for each side.

Allen stated that he had always tried to be a law-abiding citizen and that on the day of the shooting took no part in it. He said he went to work ten days after the strike on the railroad and had been with the A. B. & A. 17 months when the riot occurred. He declared that he had been insulted several times as the result of taking a place with the road, but always had gone out of his way to avoid having any trouble with the men who hung around the yards.

Saw Walton Fall. Two defense witnesses testifying Friday afternoon said they saw Charles Hunt, a negro porter, fire four times in the direction of Walton, and that Walton fell immediately. They were S. H. Law and L. F. Cooper. Their testimony was in direct opposition to that of B. T. Moon, of Bellwood avenue, who stated he saw Allen shoot Walton.

Moon testified he was on his way to Fort McPherson and stopped to witness the affray and saw Allen and Williams shooting from a bank opposite the position occupied by Walton.

Moon said he saw two negro men

Maybe Yonkerites Buried Goddess To Cut Birthrate

What Is Statue? Priceless Antique or Modern Trash? Experts Puzzled.

New York, July 28.—The turn of a pipe-layers' spade in the lawn of an ancient estate in Yonkers, N. Y., has unearthed a graven mystery as baffling to the art critics of the day as that age-old vaudeville puzzle of Tony Pastor's time: "Yonkers? Yonkers? What are Yonkers?"

To this day nobody ever has been able to explain exactly what are Yonkers. An ancient mayor of the town came as near as anyone when he said: "Yonkers aren't; Yonkers is. It's a singular name for a singular town. Tourists agreed with him.

The stone enigma lifted from the soil of the lawn of ex-Governor Samuel T. Tilden's estate, may have been carved by a fellow named Praxiteles, who ran a grave-stone studio in Crete or Athens 2,000 years ago, or it may have been done by one of these dollar-a-day artisans who were sculpting commercial gages and angels with celestial ukeleles, 50 years ago, when such monuments were in demand for the graves of prosperous lay, grain and feed merchants in towns like Yonkers-the-singular.

Which Fate, Masters? If it was done 2,000 years ago it's a perfect specimen of art and will find its way into the Metropolitan or some such museum. If it was hacked out by an ordinary American workman for wages since the civil war, it's just a vulgar chunk of marble and will somebody please be so good as to dump it in the Hudson river? Rich Youths Turn To Horny-Handed Toil for Thrills Powder King's Son Now Working as Strikebreaker in Railroad Shops.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, July 28.—It begins to look as if those rich young men who play all summer long at Newport and other exclusive resorts are going to have to give up their white linen knickerbockers and get into overalls, or some other kind of working clothes.

Work is becoming a fad in the best families. Several rich men's sons recently have given up swinging golf clubs and started carrying their own dinner pails—figuratively speaking, at least.

The latest addition to the list of hardworking millionaire offspring is Alfred Victor DuPont, son of Alfred I. DuPont, the powder king, who is one of the richest men in the United States. This 23-year-old boy, a Harvard student, pulled on a pair of overalls Thursday and went to work as a strikebreaker in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Wilmington, Del., for 20 cents an hour. Two of his wealthy young chums became hired hands at the same time.

"Comparatively Poor." When it was announced that young DuPont had been hired as a railroad shopmen's apprentice, it was explained that he has been disinherited by his father and was "comparatively poor for a DuPont." Just how poor that may be a question and some doubt is expressed as to whether young DuPont will have much left out of his wages after buying his cigarettes. One explanation

Organ Recital by Sheldon To Be Resumed on Sunday

For two weeks the great municipal organ of Atlanta has been silent to the hosts of radio enthusiasts who listen nightly to WGM, the broadcasting station of The Constitution.

Sunday, the great organ, under the touch of City Organist Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., will burst into music for three audiences. There will be an audience at the City Auditorium, another at Piedmont park, which will hear the music as transmitted to that playground of Atlantans by The Constitution, and another, the great radio audience which will hear the music as it is broadcast from WGM.

The concerts in the city parks, which were inaugurated several months ago by The Constitution drew great crowds to both Piedmont and Grant parks and it was with regret that The Constitution was unable to present the programs during the last two weeks.

The concert tomorrow afternoon will start promptly at 3:30 o'clock and will last about an hour.

Listeners in a score of states will receive the music by radio from WGM just as the audience at the Auditorium and that other at Piedmont park, where The Constitution has installed a loud speaker and special amplifying apparatus, will hear it.

Mr. Sheldon has arranged an unusually attractive program for the recital tomorrow afternoon, one of the features of which will be a group of "A Day in Venice," by Nevin

EUROPE DRIFTING INTO WAR, WARNS BRITISH PREMIER

Lloyd George Says Public Opinion Must Check Spirit of Hostility Now Rampant.

HOPE OF CIVILIZATION IS LEAGUE OF NATIONS

World Is Safe If League Succeeds, But Doomed If It Fails, He Asserts.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
London, July 28.—Fear that the nations of Europe are drifting toward another war has prompted Premier Lloyd George to sound a warning against the upbuilding of new armies and machines or war.

He is urging that public opinion mobilize itself at once to check this spirit of hostility, before "a match is dropped" on the explosive material now scattered over the face of Europe.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Non-conformist church here, the British premier called on all churches to combine to make another war impossible.

Growing Suspensions. "There is growing suspicion that a conflict is coming again," Lloyd George said. "There is anxiety over armaments and there is a building up of new armies. You have fears, suspicions, dislikes and ambitions being fostered. Keep your eyes on what is happening."

Some nations, the premier asserted, are constructing more terrible machines of war than were ever made during the last struggle, machines not designed to disperse armies, but to "attack defenseless cities and main, kill, poison, mutilate and burn helpless women and children."

"If the next war ever comes, it will be a war on civilization itself," the premier warned.

Hopes Lie in League. While pointing out that Great Britain has reduced its army, navy and air forces, thus setting an example for the world, he insisted that it would be difficult to continue this policy as long as other nations are building up their military strength.

"It is difficult for a nation to remain defenseless while other nations are building up armaments of destruction," the premier said. The horrors of war he had seen, Lloyd George said, had made him vow "to conserve my remaining energies to make it impossible for humanity again to pass through the fire, torment, cruelty, horror and slaughter of war."

He attached high hopes to the league of nations as an essential part of civilization, which he declared would be safe if the league succeeded, but doomed if the league failed.

At this moment the strongest passions of the human heart are ranging

SUICIDE VERDICT IN MYSTERY CASE

W. H. Stembridge Tells Coroner's Jury That He Does Not Know Why Wife Ended Life.

A verdict of suicide was returned Friday afternoon by the coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Grace Wilson Stembridge, aged 22 years, who died in an ambulance while being taken to a local hospital late Thursday afternoon, following discovery of the woman in an unconscious condition by her husband, in the bathroom of their apartment, at 204 Cooper street.

Testimony of W. H. Stembridge, the husband, who declared he knew of no reason for his wife's act, and that of Mrs. H. J. Nolan, who resided in the adjoining apartment, who stated that Mrs. Stembridge appeared in the best of health and in jovial spirits Thursday morning, were the only features of the inquest.

"I haven't the slightest idea what caused my wife to take her own life," Stembridge told Coroner Paul Donohoe. "We had no quarrel or anything that could have possibly inspired the act. If she was unhappy I did not know of it or what caused it."

Mrs. Nolan asserted she talked with Mrs. Stembridge early Thursday morning and that the latter appeared in excellent health and humor.

"I met Mrs. Stembridge in the hall," said Mrs. Nolan, "and we talked for a few minutes. She didn't appear to be downcast nor was there anything about her actions to denote unhappiness. Later she left home and said she was going down town. I didn't see her again until Mr. Stembridge summoned me after finding her lying on the floor, unconscious."

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at 38 Davis street. H. M. Patterson & Son in charge. Two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Mize, of Atlanta, and Mrs. L. D. Chambers, of Macon, and one brother, James Wilson, who is stationed in the United States army in the Panama canal zone, survive, besides the husband.

Harding Proposal Expected to End Rail Shop Strike

EFFORT TO LOWER WOOL SCHEDULES APPEARS HOPELESS

Opponents of High Tariff on Wool Goods Determined to Fully Expose Iniquities, However.

SENATORS INVOLVED BY SELF-INTEREST

Many Active Advocates of High Duty Are Wool Raisers—Scandal May Follow Fight.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, July 28.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Democratic and republican opponents of the "indefensible" wool schedules of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill have abandoned all hope of having those rates reduced, and the spirited fight which has been going on in the senate for several days appears to have resulted only in a stronger determination of the high protectionist group to retain the duties proposed. The latter has been manifested by every record vote taken on the subject.

During consideration of the schedules relating to wool, numerous attempts have been made by both majority and minority members to have the senate lower in some form the scales recommended by the finance committee. But on each attempt the record shows that the effort is futile. Members of the wool ring show no sign of relinquishing their position and are determined not to give in even though daily exposures are made of the increased costs in goods of woolen content arising under the duties.

A singular commentary on the whole wool fight, as seen by observers, finds expression in the activity of members of the senate who are personally interested in wool, either as growers or manufacturers. Attention has been directed to this fact by the opposition in the senate of late and there is evidence today of the affair being developed into a national scandal.

Self Interest Impels. Senators, who, according to their self-written biographies in the Congressional Record, admit their wide interest in wool, have been in marked attendance during the entire debate. Before the wool schedules came up their presence was not so conspicuous.

Sensor Stanfield, republican, of Oregon, after an absence from the capitol for several weeks, returned just as the schedules were reached. Like all the other members of the senate personally interested in the rates he has voted against amendments designed to lower duties proposed.

In the congressional record Senator Stanfield discloses this with his own pen:

"Engaged in the livestock industry, being America's largest producer of wool and mutton; also engaged in banking, particularly in the financing of livestock producers."

Other Wool Kings. Other members of the senate who admit their fortunes were largely made from wool are Senators Gooding, Idaho, self-styled chairman of the tariff bloc; Warren and Kendrick, of Wyoming; Cameron, Arizona, and Bursum and Jones, of New Mexico, all of whom have made an active defense of the committee rates on wool.

From a knowledge of this, the question is being asked in capital circles, should not these senators refuse to vote on the schedules? It is being

Klansmen in Masks On Soil of Georgia Defy Clarke Order

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 28.—In defiance of the edict of Acting Warden E. Y. Clarke, of Atlanta, the Ku Klux Klans of Tennessee and North Georgia tonight joined in a ceremony across the state line near Rossville, Ga., wearing masks. The klansmen from Tennessee went to the meeting without their regalia and it is not known if they adorned themselves after reaching Georgia soil. A Chattanooga newspaper man, who witnessed the ceremonies from a distance, reported that not only the sentinels on duty, but those officiating, wore their hoods and robes.

E. Y. Clarke, imperial wizard pro tem, was not in Atlanta Friday night and no one could be reached at the imperial palace who was authorized to speak for him.

MISSOURI PRIMARY INTEREST INTENSE

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—"Rid us of Reed" and "Win with Reed" are some of the placards seen on business houses, sign boards, street cars and automobiles here. The placards refer to next Tuesday's statewide primary election and reports reaching St. Louis say the rural districts have been placarded as heavily as the cities.

The contest between United States Senator James A. Reed and Breckinridge Long, third assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration, for the democratic senatorial nomination overshadows every other contest and the principal topic of conversation is the Reed-Long race. Veteran politicians say that never in the history of Missouri politics has the interest in a contest been so great and former President Wilson's action in sending several letters into Missouri, urging Reed's defeat, has lent national interest to the race.

Both Reed and Long have been expressing the greatest confidence of victory and only last night Long told an audience here "the fight has been won." "I'm all ready for November."

"The policies of Woodrow Wilson" including the league of nations, is the principal plank in Long's platform and Long's followers have been referring to the fact that Reed was read out of the democratic party by the 1920 state convention.

Reed on the other hand denies he has fought former President Wilson and asserts he has been the "real democrat all along."

The prohibition issue enters both the democratic and republican contest. Long has the support of the dry element on the democratic side. Of the six republican candidates, William Sacks, millionaire oil man, is the only one who has announced himself in favor of the beer and light wines. The others either have declared themselves for prohibition or for law enforcement as regards the 18th amendment.

TWO DIE ON GALLOWS FOR MERCHANT'S DEATH

Vancouver, B. C., July 28.—Alex Paulson and Allen Robinson were hanged at Okalla prison today for the murder of W. F. Salsbury, prominent Vancouver merchant, on the night of April 21, 1921. Salsbury was shot during a robbery. Paulson and Robinson were originally to have been executed at midnight last night, but were granted a 12-hour stay of execution on the plea of their counsel.

McCAIN ARRESTED IN ESTATE CASE

Americus, Ga., July 28.—(Special.) Arrested as he was about to leave the state for Clermont, Fla., on a peon process, sworn out by several American men, before Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, W. B. McCain, administrator of the estate of J. A. Hill, formerly of Smithville, Lee county, has been asked to produce the last will and testament of Hill, which, it is alleged, has never been offered for probate.

In addition to this allegation, the court was asked to appoint a receiver and place McCain under bond for his appearance here August 15, where hearing on the writ will take place before Judge Littlejohn, at chambers. Judge Littlejohn appointed S. J. Yeoman, of Leesburg, as receiver of the estate, pending settlement of the legal controversy, and set bond in the case at $6,000, which was made allowing McCain to continue his trip to Florida.

According to the allegations in the petition, W. B. McCain was appointed administrator of the estate of J. A. Hill last September, acting in the interests of Mr. Hill's wife and daughter, who survive him. The petition alleges that McCain has taken the personal assets of the estate out of the jurisdiction of the Georgia courts and that he is not paying debts of deceased.

It further alleges that because he is a non-resident, he is disqualified from serving as administrator of the estate. A final count is that Hill left a will which has never been probated. Back of the petition is the attempt on the part of American business men to collect approximately $6,000 due them from Hill's estate and establish whether or not the will, which they claim was left by deceased, left any of the property to others than beneficiaries under the McCain administration. Owing to the fact that neither the Lee county sheriff nor his deputy could be located, the writ was turned over to Sheriff Lucius Harvey, of Sumter county, who served it just as McCain was preparing to leave for Florida.

Negro Is Lynched Following Quarrel Over Drinking Cup

Texarkana, Texas, July 28.—A quarrel over a drinking cup between a white street paving foreman and a negro employee at Hope, Ark., about 30 miles northeast of Texarkana, was followed this afternoon by the lynching of the negro near Guernsey, four miles southwest of Hope.

John West, of Emporia, Kan., was the negro lynched. He had been employed on the paving job about ten days. The foreman was Henry Worthington, of Topeka, Kan., who had been on the job about two weeks.

STRIKES HELD UP RETURN TO NORMAL, SAYS DUN REVIEW

New York, July 28.—Dun's tomorrow will say: Existing strikes have unmistakably restrained the business recovery that had been steadily gathering momentum, and evidence is not lacking of a distinct check in certain quarters. Priority orders in railroad transportation and distribution of fuel reflect the more disturbing aspect of the labor troubles, and present conditions cause the deferment of numerous transactions which would otherwise be consummated. Hesitation in industrial circles not unnaturally follows the development of doubts regarding supplies and costs of coal, while producing capacity in some leading lines can not be utilized to the extent that had been previously foreshadowed. Actual curtailment of manufacturing where it appears, results more from the inability to maintain output than from restriction of buying, yet demand has also slackened in some instances because deliveries are more uncertain, until there is an increasing disposition to postpone important action pending a clearer insight into the future. Although this is normally the quietest period of the year prevailing drawbacks tend to accentuate the summer abatement of activities and to prompt a waiting policy in different quarters. FIGHTING RESUMED IN CHINA WARFARE

Canton, July 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fighting between the troops of Sun Yat Sen, the deposed president of the Southern republic here, and those of General Chen Chiung-Ming, the leader supporting the cause of the central republic in Peking, has been resumed, after two years respite, about 130 miles north of Canton.

According to estimates, Chen's soldiers number 18,000, Sun's 7,000. Airplanes from the Sun Yat Sen army dropped bombs at Ssichow warning the people to leave, as a general engagement was planned for Saturday.

A month ago Sun declared his northern expedition would return soon to Canton and re-establish him in the presidency of the Canton government. The expedition, however, has made no progress southward.

Apparently the present unsettled conditions are likely to continue for months.

Monument to Baseball.

Chicago, July 28.—Dan Johnson, president of the American league, announced today that the league had appropriated $100,000 to erect the monument to baseball in East Potomac park, Washington.

Designs will be sought immediately from leading sculptors of the United States.

FOUR ARE TRAPPED IN BURNING MINE

Illinois Coal Mine On Fire, With Four Men Known to Be Entombed.

Murphysboro, Ill., July 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Four men are known to be entombed in a coal shaft of the Midway Coal company, near Ward, 10 miles, northeast of this city, in which a fire broke out this afternoon. A mine relief team from Duquoin under direction of State Mine Inspector Frank Rosbottom, at 9 o'clock made its second attempt to rescue the four.

The men known to be in the mine are Superintendent Milo McGown, William Forth, a pumpman; Harry Laughran, a mine foreman, and Tom Kenkelly, an inspector of the mine.

The fire originated at the bottom of the shaft, it was said, and probably was caused by spontaneous combustion. The four men were trapped in the shaft after they had descended to investigate the cause of smoke coming from the shaft.

RESCUERS FAIL.

BUT TRY AGAIN.

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Four men were entombed in the burning mine of the Midway Mining company, at Ward, 13 miles south of Duquoin, and the Duquoin rescue team had been unable to reach them late tonight, according to a report received by Robert M. Medill, state director of mines and minerals.

Rescue teams from Benton and Herrin were ordered to the mine, and a new attempt will be made to penetrate the sections on fire.

The entombed men went into the mine this morning after the blaze had been discovered. It is believed the fire is a flare-up from a blaze which started last spring. The section on fire was sealed at that time, but it is thought the flames have been driven into other portions of the mine.

EDUCATION BOARD MEMBERS TO FACE TRIAL, IS REPORT

Reports that Mayor Hey, School Commissioners W. L. McCallie, Jr., and A. C. Meixell and Councilman J. C. Murphy, will be "court-martialed" for alleged violation of their oaths to the Twelve-Table clause, a secret organization otherwise known as the National League of Pathfinders, were current Friday at city hall, forming the latest chapter in recent disclosures said to have taken place in the club.

The charges against the mayor and other officials are said to have grown out of the recent election of teachers in the city public schools in which the "defendants" refused to oust a number of teachers of the Catholic faith.

After Food Comes Lady Nicotine With Burglars

Numerous Robberies Reported to Police From All Sections of City.

J. Rosenbaum's grocery store, at 3 Greensferry avenue, was entered by burglars during Thursday night, according to reports furnished detectives Friday morning, and a large amount of food obtained.

Some of the merchandise that has been missed are 2 24-pound sacks of flour, 6 12-pound sacks; 4 10-pound buckets of lard and 1 5-pound bucket; 1 ham and 6 boxes of cigars.

The robbery was investigated by City Detectives A. S. Smith and J. W. Hollingsworth, who so far have unearthed no clues upon which to base an arrest. The officers expressed the belief that the motor truck was used in carrying off the loot.

Two suits of clothes, a hat and some soap were reported stolen from the residence of Mrs. E. E. Grogan, 450 Whitehall street, while Mrs. E. E. Puckett, of 693 South Pryor street, reported to the detectives that thieves stole a purse containing about 15 cents in money and valuable papers from her.

While Miss Chastain, who lives on Bellwood avenue at Abby street, was swimming in the lake at Mad-dox park Thursday evening, some one stole an expensive cameo brooch from her clothes in a locker, according to information furnished detectives yesterday morning.

Police and detectives Friday were searching for alleged burglars that were reported to have robbed a dry goods store at Roswell during Thursday night, taking among other things, an expensive bed mattress.

This robbery was received early Friday morning by Police Captain J. E. Chandler. The particulars concerning the alleged robbery, or whose place was entered, was not contained in the report.

EFFORT TO LOWER WOOL SCHEDULES HOPELESS

recalled that Senator LaFollette, when the Payne-Aldrich tariff was under consideration in the 61st congress, declined to vote on the duties relating to lead and zinc, because of his personal interest in mines of that character. The Wisconsin senator declared he would be voting to better his own interest.

Senator Williams, Mississippi, during the 63d congress appealed to Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, a large cotton manufacturer and reputed to be at the head of the cotton-goods lobby, not to vote on that schedule of the Underwood-Simmons tariff. But Lippitt voted.

No Ruling Made.

Further records show that as far back as the 40th congress, the question of whether a senator should be permitted to vote on an item in which he was likely to be influenced by his personal interest, or investment was brought up for discussion. Because of a parliamentary situation, however, no ruling was made on the point.

Discussion of the subject has found itself repeatedly in cloakroom conversation for a number of years, it was said, and many have argued that some step should be taken to prevent members from voting under the circumstances. With present conditions acting to make the subject prominent, it is likely that the chair will be called upon again to make an expression, and in the event this is ineffective an amendment to the rules may be proposed.

Incidentally, the tariff bill gives rise to a number of similar situations, in which members of the upper chamber will be called upon to cast their ballot on a subject that involves their private interest. Senator Harrell, Oklahoma, who is a large holder of oil property, will have the opportunity of voting for a tariff on that product, which he is expected to do.

To Expose Duties.

Meanwhile, democratic senators, joined by insular republicans, have no intention of letting the wool schedules go unexposed, although they have come to realize the futility of their efforts. Led by Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, the minority continued to bring out the "indefensible" clauses of the bill and are showing where the costs of certain woolen products will be increased even over the point imposed in the fatal Payne-Aldrich measure.

Citing interesting figures on the subject, Senator Walsh today said: "To what extent these high compensatory and protective duties will burden the consumers can be illustrated by the rate fixed upon cloth valued at 80 cents per yard. Adding the 49 cents per yard compensatory duty and the 55 per cent ad valorem protective duty, it is easily seen that the price of 80 cent wool cloth will be increased to the consumer by 106 per cent. In other words, foreign cloth worth 80 cents per yard will, by reason of these duties, be sold to the consumer in America at 85 cents more.

What It Means.

"It means purchasers of women's dress goods which cost in the foreign market 80 cents per yard will pay in America $1.65 per yard which would include the duty paid on this material. On an average of four yards to the pound this would mean that women's dress goods bought in America and made abroad would be advanced 41 cents per yard."

"Do you wonder that there is unrest in this country? Do you wonder that there are strikes? Do you wonder that there is a tremendous movement against our present economic system?" concluded the Massachusetts senator.

SPARE TIME MONEY

Do you know a woman in your town who can use $25 to $50 extra money a month made in an interesting, pleasant and spare time business?

Mrs. Tillman, of Portland, Oregon, made $135.00 in five days, then made from $25 to $10 daily and lost after their home duties.

Williams and Brown Scored by Blalock In Communication

A. O. Blalock, candidate for commissioner of agriculture opposing Commissioner J. J. Brown, replied in an open letter Friday to statements which he charged Representative Williams, of Walton county, made in a house committee meeting a few days ago. He asserted that Mr. Williams' remarks carried the inference that Governor Hardwick was planning to appoint Mr. Blalock to the office of state auditor if the legislature created that office.

Williams is opposed to the state auditor bill. Mr. Blalock stated that he was not surprised at the opposition of Mr. Williams to the bill because it would necessarily bring about an auditing and checking of the agricultural department.

The department now has two members of your family on its payroll, he added, "and they were appointed upon your recommendation. Therefore, it is easily understood why you are opposing the auditor's bill. It might be of some interest to the public to know that while only two members of your family are on the payroll, Commissioner Brown, who himself draws a salary of $5,000 per annum and expenses, has four members of his family on the payroll. Three of his sons are on the payroll and one nephew."

Moore to Succeed Barrett as Member Democrat Committee

Montgomery, Ala., July 28.—Walter Moore, of Birmingham, was this afternoon unanimously elected member of the national democratic executive committee from Alabama, to succeed the late Edward W. Barrett, of Birmingham.

James H. Webb, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, called the special meeting of the body to order at 1:15 o'clock and the death of Mr. Barrett was announced.

A. F. Fite offered resolutions of sympathy on the death of the national committeeman, which were immediately adopted.

J. C. Milner, of Lamar county, nominated Mr. Moore as Mr. Barrett's successor. This was seconded by Judge Mike Solie, member of the committee from Dale county. On motion of W. D. Nesbit, former chairman of the state committee, the election of the Birmingham man was made unanimous, and no other name was suggested.

Portland, Ore., July 28.—Praying in public is not an offense against the civil service and therefore George Winters, veteran employee of the city park bureau, is to get his job back. This is the ruling of the civil service commission, which found that Winters had been improperly discharged.

Winters was discharged several weeks ago because he persisted in praying loudly as a preliminary to opening his lunch pail. His foreman and associates were said to have objected.

GEORGE GETS LICENSE AND KEEPS FREEDOM

M. George, who conducts a lunch and cigar stand on Peters street, Friday afternoon in recorder's court decided to get a proper license to conduct his business, rather than be bound over to the state courts.

George was arrested Thursday afternoon by License Inspectors Petiot and Turner, it being charged that his license was insufficient to cover the scope of his business. City Clerk Walter Taylor was personally present in recorder's court to prosecute the charge. Upon the decision of George to obtain the required license, the case was dismissed.

TAXES AND THE BALLOT.
Under the constitutional laws of Georgia no citizen whom the records show to be delinquent in the payment of either property or poll taxes is entitled to vote in public elections.

Senator E. M. Thorpe, of Townsend, Ga., has introduced in the state senate a bill proposing to amend that restriction in such a way as to make it apply only to citizens, otherwise qualified to vote, failing or neglecting to pay their poll taxes, thus removing the ban that now exists by reason of non-payment of taxes on property.

It is a meritorious bill, strictly in keeping with the spirit and the cardinal principles of democracy, and it ought to be enacted into law.

Thousands upon thousands of good citizens, most of them farmers and laboring men—many of them, perhaps, having lived in Georgia from birth and who expect to end their days here—will be legally disqualified to vote in the elections this fall by reason of their having failed to pay their taxes, wholly or in part.

Columns and pages of weekly newspapers in all parts of Georgia are filled each week with legal advertisements of property to be sold by sheriffs or town marshals because the owners are in arrears on the books of the tax collector.

Of course, this condition, due largely to the unusual business depression of the last few years, is more or less general in all parts of the country.

But in Georgia if a struggling farmer, by reason of a crop failure or low prices, is unable to pay his taxes we do not let him vote; or if a wage-earner loses his job or is otherwise hit by adversity, and is not able to pay his taxes prior to the final registration day, the state considers him unworthy the democratic privilege of exercising a voice in his government and denies him access to the polls!

It is wrong for honest, hard-working, patriotic citizens to be legally relegated to the citizenship status of aliens, imbeciles, disfranchised criminals and "Indians not taxed," for no other cause than their lack of the money necessary to pay their taxes in full on or before a given date.

The financial plight of tax-delinquent citizens might be due to political and governmental conditions which their votes would help to remedy; and yet, by reason of their poverty, they are powerless to help themselves to the extent of voting for men or measures holding out hopes of relief.

All property considerations in any form should be removed from the ballot-box in Georgia.

A man without taxable property may, nevertheless, be a good citizen, possessing the highest ideals of citizenship, capable of voting intelligently and in the best interests of his state and community; or, having property, he may be unable to meet his tax payments promptly when due, and still be as good a citizen at heart and as deserving of the full rights of an elector as he would be were he a millionaire.

No citizen should be permitted to exercise the franchise if he has neglected, failed or refused to pay his poll tax—a nominal tax, an earnest of good faith as a citizen and of loyalty to the government—but beyond that all pecuniary considerations at the ballot-box are at variance with the fundamental principles of government "of the people, for the people and by the people."

The present theory of evolution is that it affords considerable free advertising for public men who discuss it.

The difference between a "sweetheart" and a "sweetie" is that the sweetheart isn't nervous about being seen by her husband.

EAT MORE GA. BUTTER.

Now that the superior quality of Georgia-made butter has been proven and attested by federal government dairy experts, the last vestige of even any mental obstacle to its consumption must have been removed.

Georgia people will, we are confident, eat more Georgia butter, just as soon as more of it is made. It is rapidly becoming a question, simply, of the supply.

The Columbus Enquirer-Sun indicates this in an editorial appeal to the consuming public, to demand more home-made butter, not just because it is home-made, but because it is a superior article. Illustrating butter conditions and possibilities, The Enquirer-Sun says regarding the Columbus creamery:

"We have a creamery right here in Columbus that could be made ten or twenty or fifty times as big as it is—employ just that many more people and keep just that much more money at home—if even half, or a fourth, of the people of Columbus and vicinity didn't send so far away from home for their butter; to Ohio, or Illinois, or Wisconsin, or Tennessee.

"As we've told you once before, the Columbus creamery is able to take and pay for 900 gallons of cream per day, at $1 per gallon—or $900 a day. And that's $16,400 a year, or about $22,000 a month. That is, of course, if the creamery runs to capacity; which it can only do if the farmers bring in the cream—and the people buy its butter.

"And this means that they would have to buy only 2,000 pounds of butter a day—for that is the present capacity of the Columbus creamery—although, we should think, this city and immediate vicinity would consume much more than that."

What is true of Columbus, is applicable to creameries and dairy products, in every other section of the state. There are a few creameries in Georgia now, which get a premium of about ten cents a pound over the market price, because their patrons know what a splendid quality of butter they produce, and are willing and eager to pay for it.

Pure butter is 85 per cent fat, and is the purest as well as the most easily digestible form in which a fatty food may be taken. One pound of pure butter, as the dietitian will tell you, contains, in food value, 3,450 calories, while a pound of steak, costing almost as much, contains only 840 calories. There is more food value in a pound of butter than in four pounds of steak—enough food value, in fact, to supply the daily requirement of a healthy, hard-working laborer. Of course, a diversified diet is essential; no one can eat all butter, or, for that matter, all fat of any kind. But the average Georgian could eat more butter, with perfectly good dietetic results.

Further urging increased consumption of the home-made article, The Enquirer-Sun continues:

"Just think what it would mean if everybody would pitch in and help to develop the creamery industry in Georgia; which they can do easily enough by buying Georgia-made butter. Look, for instance, at the growth of this industry in Tennessee, a southern state that has literally made millions out of its creameries. In Nashville alone there are three creameries, which turn out 4,000,000 pounds of butter a year. These creameries have 300 cream stations scattered throughout the state, where cream is bought and paid for and shipped to the creameries. There are in Tennessee today 28 other creameries, with a total output of 10,000,000 pounds, or an annual income of $5,000,000."

Here is a bold weevil remedy that will function efficiently. A state that produces little cotton is pointing us the way.

But Georgians must support their creamery industry if it is to get anywhere. Whether or not they increase their individual consumption of butter, they can at least demand the Georgia product with the knowledge that they are getting the best there is to be had.

Cold storage will keep Georgia butter for Georgians the year round. It will also mean more substantial profits for the producer. The Constitution recently pointed out that millions of pounds of butter are now going into cold storage in the north and east at around 39 cents a pound. Next winter the eager consumer will be paying 70 to 80 cents for it.

Here are interesting development possibilities for the Georgia creamery industry, let us repeat; while the consumer may always be assured of the best obtainable article at the most reasonable market price.

About the only way to keep a law from being unconstitutional is to attach a rider levying a tax.

The easiest way to be reconciled to age is to observe a few young simpletons trying to act smart.

It is pleasant to live in the country where you know so many people; and pleasant to live in the city where so few people know you.

There will always be two-by-fours in office while the great American voter distrusts men who have enough ability to make money.

The sorrow will seem like the dawn of a dream, the winter will bloom like the May. And the beautiful stars in the heavens will beam, at the turn of the road some day.

An answer sweet to our life-long prayers, And we'll hear what the angels sing: A song for a sigh! Light'll shine through our tears At the turn of the road some day.

In a flowery land we shall hold Love's hand Where the storms kneel down to pray: After the night we shall see the light At the turn of the road some day.

For The Race.

If you'd reach the land of grace Take your good luck, and see, Laying not on hill and plain Love-blest home-cups to drain; Life is better for the strife, And the race itself is life.

Future's calling, and Today Is the first step on the way, From its brave heart still we borrow Hope and comfort for tomorrow, O'er the ways with red thorns rife Still the race is life of life!

The Wisest Way.

"Don't take too long off to celebrate your good luck," said Brother Williams. "When it comes, the wise way is to lay low and be thankful, not go 'round hollown' to the hills an' walkin' up the valleys. Take it as a matter of course an' keep on hittin' hard lucks for more."

MOVING, MOVING, MOVING!

After all, the substantial fact of life is that the human soul moves. Though the good die young and the bad ride on to their third score year and ten, yet the souls of each move on.

We are mixed metaphors in a world of exquisite beauty. The good and bad in our individual selves, and the good and bad among people as a whole, must ever remain as the background for movement in the world.

None of us is anything of which to boast.

The Infinite God reaches his hands as far for the bad as the good. Because, you see, both belong to Him. And what good shepherd would let a single one of his sheep stray away—even the least promising of the 'lock'?

Our progress may be ever so slow, or maybe not any at all. Yet the rising and falling of our breast in breathing the air about us is evidence that there is movement in our bodies and that what we do with out hands and feet, as well as with our thoughts, evolve, has a meaning and a reason.

All is change. That means movement.

Our great concern must be that we keep moving into better atmospheres—mentally and spiritually.

The leader may fall but his spirit leads on.

Time and movement interlock. Yesterday we wrote our letters with a quill—then a steel pen. Now we use a typewriter. Tomorrow they will be wireless along the heels of our desires and all things shall have moved closer together.

The boy in school early appreciates this fact of movement. His dream is of the class ahead—until on some day he has no more classes ahead and must figure out his movements in tasks and achievements.

And that must ever be the measure of our success and happiness—how far and how well we have moved—ahead!

MY HOE AND I

What pleasant work it is to hoe In the garden, row after row; And smell the earth's fresh loosened soil, And think of all the gifts of God.

The hoe's even swing and gay little Help my earnest meditating along; I muse and dream of books I've read, And of all the past life I've lead.

Some work takes you every thought, But not so with this hoe I bought; It strengthens muscles in arms and limbs; Helps weak plants attain strong stems.

With my hoe, I would no more part Than a merchant would his busy mart; For hoeing, thinking, hour after hour, My hoe and I, I have wondrous power.

Give to South Georgia An Agricultural College

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

The bill by Senator Ellis to establish in south Georgia, in the coastal plain region, an agricultural college, where practical farming, and the allied producing interests, can be studied under soil and climatic conditions peculiar to that section is a good one, and should pass.

The North Georgia Agricultural college at Dahlonega, and the State College of Agriculture, at Athens, furnish full and adequate educational facilities needed for the agricultural development of the mountain and Piedmont regions of the state, while the Georgia School of Technology, recognized by the United States government as the second best school of the kind in the United States, is training young men capable of meeting all the demands necessary in the vast possibilities for the development of the mineral, water power and industrial resources of the state which are destined to become the richest industrial section of the United States—the veritable "workshop of America."

The only industry south Georgia has is agriculture, yet no provision has been made by the state for a college to train men needed for the proper development of the agricultural resources of south Georgia.

The Ellis bill is intended only to supply this long neglected need.

Had the south Georgia Agricultural college been established in 1888 the many boys and girls who would have been educated in this school would have made the agricultural development of south Georgia far surpass what has been done without such aid, and Georgia should not hesitate longer to do for this section of the state what she has long since provided for the other two sections.

Hampered as she has been by lack of educational facilities for the proper development of agriculture, practically her sole industry, south Georgia has developed her agriculture and the other industries based thereon, to such an extent that south Georgia now pays practically half of the taxes of the state.

The richness of her soil and her benign climatic conditions make the possibilities of the agricultural development of south Georgia far beyond the fondest dreams of the most sanguine.

South Georgia with proper scientific educational advantages in agricultural lines will soon become the garden spot of southeast America.

Each Georgia section can and will thus develop along the lines nature has provided, and each be the complement of the other and each in supplying the other's needs will serve its own interest and grow richer through service each to the other.

"Georgia must in justice give to each great section," says Senator Ellis, "the educational and scientific help that each requires for working out the great plan which the God of nature has designed by giving to each section these great natural resources, or its proper destiny cannot be fulfilled."

"If either suffers for lack of proper development of its great natural resources, the other will correspondingly suffer, while if the great mother state of Georgia deals equally well with her children of north Georgia and of south Georgia she will of a truth be able to hold justly to the proud title of 'The Empire State of the South.'"

"This South Georgia Agricultural college is necessary to bring about the desired progress of development, not only for south Georgia but for the whole state, and Georgia surely will not fail in granting such plainly needed aid to this section of our great state."

I heartily agree with Senator Ellis' excellent argument.

The coastal plain region of Georgia embraces three-fifths of the area of the state. Practically the whole of it is adapted to agriculture. The proportion certainly is more than three-fifths of the area of the state adapted to agriculture.

The mountain and Piedmont regions of Georgia are rich in mineral wealth, and no similar area in the United States has larger potential water powers capable of development than is possessed by these two regions.

The warmer climate and sandy soils of the coastal plains also make the problem of fighting insect pests and plant diseases a much more serious problem than it is in the mountain and Piedmont regions, where cold weather is a great aid in controlling plant diseases and harmful insects.

Many diseases most destructive to crops grown in the sandy soil and in the warmer climate of south Georgia do not exist at Dahlonega or Athens.

The study of these many problems under the soil and climatic conditions existing in the coastal plains of Georgia make a south Georgia agricultural college necessary to the proper agricultural development of that great section of Georgia.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM REARD, M. D.

BURDETTE DEATH HEAD ACCIDENTAL

J. G. Burdette, 60, well known contractor, came to his death, January 21, as the result of being run over by an automobile, the property of J. P. Allen, which was being driven by Miss Valeria Manley, daughter of W. L. Manley, of Paces Ferry road, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury which held an inquest Friday in Fulton superior court. The jury declared, however, that Mr. Burdette came to his death as the result of an accident, which was entirely without criminal intent. The jury also found that Miss Alice Greene, daughter of Forrest Greene, to whom it is alleged Allen loaned his car, was in the car at the time of the accident.

Attorneys for Mrs. Burdette in her suit for $30,000 damages against J. P. Allen, Atlanta merchant, and Forrest Greene, of 239 Ponce de Leon avenue, state that it was not their intention to prosecute those concerned in the accident but that all they wanted was to establish how the victim of the automobile accident came to his death. The jury found that Miss Manley was driving the car at the time of the accident.

Denies Hitting Anyone. Miss Manley testified that she drove a car on Peachtree road the night of the accident, but denied that the car struck anyone. Miss Manley also denied the story told by Everett Miller, known as "Tex" Miller, that she told him of the accident.

Miller testified that he requested Dr. Harry Vaughan to divulge the names of the occupants of the car that killed Burdette, saying that they were prominent. Miller also admitted that the testimony he gave at the inquest was not the same as given before a special commissioner taking evidence in the $30,000 damage suit. At that time he stated that Miss Manley had said nothing to him about any accident.

Miss Manley testified that Miller visited her home on the Sunday night following the accident, but said that no mention of the accident was made except Miller's remarking that Dr. Vaughan had told him of an accident that had occurred on Peachtree road. Later, after she heard that Miller was discussing the accident with other persons, she questioned him, but he had not been told by Dr. Vaughan, she said.

While Miss Manley was testifying, a sharp tilt occurred in the testimony of Dr. Harry Vaughan. Dr. Vaughan said that he was not going to have his daughter browbeaten, but Coroner Donohoe held that the attorney had the right to question the witness.

Attorney Edgar Latham is representing Mrs. Burdette, widow of the dead man, in the suit for damages against J. P. Allen and Forrest Greene.

Dr. Harry J. Vaughan, Dr. H. W. McDaniels, Miss Nellie Dodd and Miss Grace Goldsmith were in an automobile proceeding out Peachtree road at the time of the accident, they testified. Miss Dodd and Dr. Vaughan testified that he looked back just in time to see Burdette struck down by a Franklin car, in which two girls were riding on the front seat.

Did Not See Man Hit. Miss Dodd said that she did not see the man hit. "I noticed the man standing near the car track as we passed, and remarked to Dr. Vaughan, 'that man will get hit if he doesn't look out,'" Miss Dodd said.

"I looked back just after he had been struck. A Franklin car sped past us and I saw two young ladies on the front seat."

At this juncture Coroner Donohoe asked the witness: "Did your car strike Mr. Burdette?"

"It did not," answered Miss Dodd. In her testimony Miss Manley said that she had seen another Franklin car some time before the accident. She said that the car had stopped and a woman had alighted from a street car and entered the car. The car was driven by a man, she said.

Miller testified that he heard of the accident at the Capital City club the night it happened. He said he visited at the Manley home the following evening and that Miss Fannie Manley asked him what he would do about the accident. He was driving someone. About the time he answered that he didn't know what he would do in such a case, Miss Valeria Manley and her mother came in, he testified. Miller was nervous.

When asked if his testimony was not differing from that given before a special commission in the damage suit, he admitted it, saying that he did not wish to hold back evidence but desired to protect the name of the girl.

Withholding Facts. Coroner Donohoe said that in the event it developed a crime had been committed if anyone had tried to suppress information as to who had committed the crime, that person would be held as an accessory after the fact. This statement was made after it developed that Miller had requested Dr. Vaughan not to reveal the number of the car that hit Burdette.

Attorney Paul Etheridge, representing the defendant in his speech to the jury said all facts had been known back in January, and that if action in a criminal suit was going to be held, that was the time to have brought it up. He said that the damages had been filed. He brought out the point that the only persons who could say that the man had been hit by a Franklin car were those who had passed the scene and had looked back; moreover, it had been brought out that two Franklin cars had been seen.

"Furthermore," he said, "if the man was in the middle of the road on a dark and drizzling night, and the road with a slope in it, how could you go so far as to say that the girl is guilty of a crime, even if it did develop that the car she was driving hit the man?"

He said also that it was not the purpose of the inquest to "put this young lady under bond."

Attorney Speaks. In his speech, Attorney Latham, for Mrs. Burdette, said, "I'll spend the rest of my life in seeing that Mrs. Burdette finds out how her husband came to be killed, and that she gets recompense even if I never get a cent for it."

He said he would not attempt to dispute the evidence that he had heard by the jury, and that it only remained for them to weigh it. He said, however, that it is a misdemeanor for anyone to operate a car under 16 years of age and that Miss Manley admitted that she had been operating a car for four years. She is now 16, he said.

Coroner Donohoe told the jury that they should decide how the man came to his death. He said that it was within their scope to fix guilt on someone if there was sufficient evidence. On the other hand, they could recommend recompense, if they found evidence to exonerate it. He said that criminal responsibility could not be held tantamount to a crime. The foreman asked the coroner what they should do in case they found it was simple negligence. The answer was that in that case no crime had been committed. The jury retired and brought back its verdict in about 20 minutes.

RESIDENTS of a suburban part of one of our avenues have been much surprised during the past few days on seeing an unusual crowd congregated at a certain spot, several times a day.

Investigation showed that the crowd had gathered before a typical refreshment stand. There was nothing extraordinary about the stand, but a further search revealed the secret of the crowds.

The young man who conducts the stand had put in the wonderful blended grape drink, NuGrape, and the people who knew NuGrape were so glad to see the familiar sign in their neighborhood that they just had to stop there and get a bottle as a special welcome to an old friend.

NuGrape has gone to the top in popular favor and the things said about it by its enthusiastic drinkers are its best advertisement.

Brilliant Reception Honors Gen. and Mrs. David C. Shanks

Atlanta's official and social life united with the army contingent at Fort McPherson last night to do honor to Major-General and Mrs. David C. Shanks.

The officers and ladies at the post were hosts at a reception and dance to welcome General Shanks, who has recently arrived to take command of the fourth corps area, and with his charming wife will reside at Fort McPherson, and a large assemblage of civilian guests, including the governor, and former governors, the mayor, and leading citizens with their wives were also present, as well as a large representation of the dancing set from town, the whole a brilliant gathering.

The service club was the scene of the function, and an elaborate use of flags with foliage plants and bright hued summer flowers formed the decorations. A large orchestra from town provided music for the reception and the dancing which followed. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

Col. Robert Haskell, commander of the 22nd infantry, was in charge of the arrangements, and the ladies of the post were a gracious group of hostesses.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

AS CHEAPLY AS ONE?

"Two can live as cheaply as one" is a proverb which everyone knows is not true, and which everyone, who needs its aid, quotes as a justification when he or she wants to take a certain well-known course that needs justifying.

Two can't live as cheaply as one, but of course by the best of the ideas is that the wife is going to add the value of her labor as a homemaker to the man's wage, and that under these conditions the wage will buy more than it would before his marriage when he is paying others directly or indirectly for service. And that is perfectly true, although it is not true that it will buy twice as much.

The Wife Contributes Service. If an unmarried man is paying $6 a week somewhere for a room he can doubtless get an apartment for $30 in which he can have as good a room besides the use of dining and living rooms. Add something for heat and light and you have a figure not as small as the $26 per month he would pay for his room but not as large as double that. His wife by taking care of the apartment makes up that difference in cost.

Likewise if he has been paying board he has been paying for the cost of cooking the food as well as for the raw materials. And presumably his wife supplies that labor and manages to get enough for two out of a slightly larger sum than he paid for one.

Of course there are many ways in which this doesn't work. You can't get two moving picture tickets for the price of one, nor two car fares for one (even if only one gets a seat). But the thing I wanted to draw attention to was this. That when the wife is unable by lack of previous training or is unwilling because she does not like housework, to contribute her labor as a homemaker to the budget, two have got to have twice as much as one did if they are going to have as much.

Moreover any woman who does work outside the home and thinks that she adds that much to what the family income would be if she stayed at home and did the housework is wrong. If they board they are going to pay something for service as well as for food and rooms; if they keep house and hire service that is going to run up very quickly.

Not Pure Gain. Mind you, I am not saying that I do not think there are circumstances under which women are happier at work than housework. What I am saying is that the woman who goes out of the home must not deceive herself into thinking that she can count all her salary as pure gain. Of course there are women who manage in their spare time at night and morning to do a good deal of housework. But they suffer in that case.

Tomorrow—The Blotter That Blots.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

It's foolish how we rush through life. And cry that time is on the wing. We're living in eternity. And time is just a clock-made thing.

HIGHWAY INTEREST KEEN IN CAROLINA

Birmingham, Ala., July 28.—(Special.)—Director-General J. A. Rountree, of the United States Good Roads association, and the Bankhead National Highway association, has just completed a tour in South Carolina and Georgia, where he delivered several addresses and conferred with good roads advocates, legislators and officials in the interest of good roads, and with special reference to the Bankhead National highway, from Washington, D. C., to San Diego, Cal.

He is highly enthusiastic over the work that is being done in South Carolina and Georgia in building the Bankhead highway, as well as roads in general throughout these states.

Injured by Lightning.

Americus, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—David Hogg, a resident of Webster county, was struck by lightning Wednesday, and remains unconscious until last night, when he regained his senses, and today appeared little the worse for his experience.

Hogg was driving a team of oxen when the bolt struck, both of his yoke being killed and he being knocked unconscious. A heavy electrical storm prevailed at the time.

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

BY W. L. GEORGE

There is an idea about today that girls do exactly as they like and that their parents remonstrate only at their peril. According to that point of view, the girl when asked: "Where are you going?" briefly replies: "Out," and returns in the night. Or next week. Also that when asked: "Where have you been?" she replies: "Out," with defiance and monotony. All the same, there are many daughters whose lines of liberty do not lie so slack. In many towns where society is rather close, where everything is known, the tendency of mothers is to control watchfully the movements of their daughters. In other words, they chaperone them in the severest manner.

Now there is nothing essentially humiliating for either party in the idea of chaperoning. It means that the mother wants to avoid for her daughter friendship which might prove damaging, but unfortunately the practice produces friction between the chaperoner and the chaperonee. The girl states that she is fit to look after herself, and that she is not going to be followed about. In such cases the mother as well as the daughter may be to blame. If all through her life she has preserved an attitude of domination over the girl, she must not be surprised if rebellion arises. Nothing can be more galling to a girl than to have it suggested that she will get into mischief unless she is supervised. It may drive her into mischief. To my mind, chaperoning should be a thing that happens rather than a thing which is imposed. It should rest exclusively upon a basis of friendship. That is to say the mother who has steadfastly kept herself in sympathy with her growing daughter, but has let her do everything she possible can, who has stretched every point in her favor, and sympathized with her interests, will be her chaperon without knowing it because she will be her friend.

Primitive Baptist Solons to Sing At Revival Here

The Georgia legislature's "singing class," organized by Judge T. J. Luke, of Ben Hill county, last year, will be heard in public for the first time this year at the protracted meeting which opens Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Atlanta Primitive Baptist church, which is holding its services in the North Avenue public school building at the intersection of Hurt street.

Judge Luke, leader of the class, has selected a double quartet of Primitive Baptists, including an elder, from his class. They will sing the famous songs of "the old-time religion" and lead in congregational singing. In addition to the legislators, Misses Bessie Dell and Nera Jennings, of Dawson, will sing solo numbers.

The services will be conducted by the Elder Walter M. Blackwell, who will deliver the revival sermons at 7:45 each evening during the week. Elder Blackwell was recently called to Atlanta from the Atlanta Primitive Baptist church at Fitzgerald and has met with considerable success in his new charge.

NEW GREEK SOCIETY APPLIES FOR CHARTER

Application for a charter of the "American Hellenic Educational Progressive association" was filed in the Fulton superior court Friday.

The organization is national in its scope and purpose to create subordinate lodges throughout the various cities of the United States. Its membership will be composed exclusively of Greeks.

Under the aims of the organization as set forth in the application for a charter an effort will be made by the society to teach the high principles of American citizenship, especially to Greeks immigrating to this country, and to instill in them loyalty and devotion to their adopted country.

JUDGE TO SENTENCE DUPRE AGAIN TODAY

Frank B. DuPre, who shot and killed Irby Walker, Pinkerton detective, last December, will be brought from the Tower Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to be sentenced by Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court for the murder of Walker. This will be the second time that the death sentence has been passed on DuPre.

Judge Humphries, as required by law, will set the date of the execution at least 30 days from Saturday and not more than 60 days from that date.

Attorney H. A. Allen, counsel for DuPre, announced Friday that he will take an appeal to the prison commission, asking the board to commute the sentence.

The indictment in his letter to the governor that South Carolina state officers who had written to Commissioner Brown had shown a "surprising disregard of facts for officers supposed to be responsible for what they say."

Senator Christensen stated that the South Carolina house adopted the program submitted by its committee, and that the senate adopted five of the seven features of the program. The net reduction of appropriations, he said, was about $750,000; the rate was reduced from 12 to 5 mills, and "the result was a reduction that broke all records."

STEELE REPORTED ABOUT TO ENTER CONGRESS RACE

Representative L. J. Steele, of DeKalb county, one of the most popular members of the house of representatives, will announce within the next few days as a candidate for congress from the fifth district, it was rumored at the capitol Friday.

While not certain that he will enter the race, Mr. Steele indicated that he probably would decide to become a candidate for the office and announce definitely next week.

Two others have already formally announced: Congressman William D. Upshaw, the present incumbent, and R. O. Cochran. Entries close August 1.

CANDIDATE BAYLOR SAVANNAH SPEAKER

H. Bedinger Baylor, of "Sans-Souci" castle, head of Wabash avenue, candidate for governor, Friday announced that he will speak either today or Saturday in Savannah. Mr. Baylor, who claims to be "legal governor of Georgia," is running a campaign of prohibition, forestry preservation, good roads, education, economy and "don't rob Peter to pay Paul."

The Housewife's Idea Box

There is nothing more irritating to a patient than the slamming of a door, unless it be the creaking of a tightly shut door is being opened. To prevent this annoyance, tie a towel from one knob of the door to the other.

ECONOMY EXPERT AND CHRISTENSEN REPLY TO BROWN

Governor Hardwick made public Friday a letter which he has received from Fred Telford, of Griffenhagen and associates, of Chicago, one of the economy experts employed by the governor to investigate Georgia state departments, and also a letter from State Senator Neil Christensen, of Georgia, chairman of the joint legislative committee on consolidation and economy under whose direction work of Telford and other efficiency experts was done in South Carolina.

The communication from Telford was in reply to criticisms of his work by statehouse officers of that state and by J. J. Brown, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, whose department was declared by Telford and Hugh J. Heber, another representative of the Griffenhagen Company, to be operating extravagantly.

Telford declared in his letter to the governor that South Carolina statehouse officers who had written to Commissioner Brown had shown a "surprising disregard of facts for officers supposed to be responsible for what they say."

Senator Christensen stated that the South Carolina house adopted the program submitted by its committee, and that the senate adopted five of the seven features of the program. The net reduction of appropriations, he said, was about $750,000; the rate was reduced from 12 to 5 mills, and "the result was a reduction that broke all records."

ATLANTIAN PATENTS CENTRIFUGAL PUMP

Letters of patent covering an improvement on a centrifugal sand and gravel pump have been received by William F. Tienary, of the Riddle Court apartments, a widely known inventor and designer of machinery.

Mr. Tienary secured patents on a centrifugal pump eight years ago. He has since made an improvement, the object of which is to protect the piston shaft against undue abrasion and to prevent leakage on the suction side of the pump such as will cause the pump to lose its priming.

PROHI AGENTS RAID MERIWETHER STILL

Capture of two large moonshine stills, said to have a combined capacity of 1,500 gallons, was reported to headquarters in Atlanta Friday by William F. Tienary, of the Riddle Court apartments, a widely known inventor and designer of machinery.

The outfits were seized Thursday near Grapeland by Agents Spencer, Allen, Atkins, Kemp and King. The stills are said to have been in operation for several months.

DRESS BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Ribbon, gay and demure, is beloved by milliners and used to trim the most expensive hats as well as the simple ones, and now it is shaped into an immense rose.

Once upon a time, long ago, when life was simple and women considered themselves capable of trimming hats with the ingredients as much the same, straw and ribbon. The price is different, and the American is searching high and low for difference in price of that, you may be sure. She spends the first week over here expressing her scandalized surprise at the cost of clothes; she takes up the next week vowing she will buy nothing in Paris; she spends a hectic third week trying out the dresses of the minor places given her by friends.

It is not easy to trim a straw hat with ribbon, as the amateur thinks so usually goes to a small milliner or has it done at the big department shops where such work is advertised along with the ribbon at the counter. If there is one thing in the world French women can do to perfection, it is to tie a bow, or place a scarf of ribbon on a hat. So the American crowd the counters to have the work done.

The flat rose as big as a cabbage is the rival of the outstanding bow this season. It has a very outgoing look, but is carried better by certain types of demure, sweet or old-fashioned faces. It takes some one quite sprightly to carry off a perky ribbon bow, and it is grotesque to make a girl of difference between the expression of the bow and the face beneath it.

The sketch shows the type of thing the French woman wears over here. This hat is being copied by Americans in straw for the rest of the season and in satin and velvet for the autumn. It is of golden brown straw with crown covered by folded satin ribbon, and there is a cabbage rose at the side, also made of the ribbon.

The brim does not turn up at the back, as you will observe, for that little trick seems to have had its day. It is longer at the sides than at front and back, and it swoops downward in a beguiling but difficult manner.

Not every face can trim this downward tilting brim. Emphasis Eugene could. But every woman does not possess her face.

THE HOUSEHOLD

IT IS TIME TO MAKE JAM. Jam-making is by no means the difficult and wearisome task that so many people seem to think it, and there would not be so many failures if the few essential preliminary precautions were carefully carried out. In the first place, the fruit must be sound and absolutely fresh, but it need not be of the finest quality.

Sugar, on the other hand, cannot be too good. Remember these two points, and the risk of disappointment will be reduced considerably.

War economy taught us that three-quarters of a pound of sugar to one pound of fruit makes jam that keeps and tastes as well as jam made by the method of using a pound to a pound, though, of course, the amount of jam is slightly decreased.

The preserving pan and long wooden spoon for stirring must be scrupulously clean, and the jars well washed, dried and heated.

It is quite a mistake to suppose that all jams are made in the same way, though the main principle of boiling fruit and sugar together until a thick sweet mixture results is the same in all cases.

Some fruits must be reduced to a pulp before the sugar is added. "Soft" fruits need longer preliminary boiling than hard fruits. Take gooseberries as an example of the former and plums of the latter, and you will realize the difference, and understand that as gooseberries contain much more juice than plums it is necessary to boil them longer to reduce the juice.

Unripe gooseberries make better jam than ripe ones, though curiously enough both preserves are much the same color.

Green Gooseberry Jam—To each twelve pounds of fruit allow nine pounds of loaf sugar. Wash, top and tail the gooseberries and put on the pan. Stand the pan on the stove, but not directly over the fire, until the skins have burst and pulp is forming. Constant stirring is necessary to prevent burning. The fruit must be boiled until the skins are transparent and the pulp looks thick. Add the sugar, gradually stirring well from the bottom of the pan. The mixture must now boil rapidly for twenty to twenty-five minutes, when it can be tested by putting one teaspoonful on to a saucer. If sufficiently cooked a crinkly film will form as the jam cools, and when quite cold the result will be stiff, semi-clear and jellified.

Next on the jam fruit list come strawberries. There are several ways of making strawberry jam, and a mixture of strawberries and green gooseberries (three pounds of gooseberries to a pound and a half of strawberries and three pounds of loaf sugar) makes a splendid jam for cooking purposes. $250 SUBSCRIBED BY PIEDMONT LODGE TO HELP CHILDREN

Heeding the appeal for funds to provide improvement for the Georgia Children's Home, an institution fostered by the Atlanta Masonic lodges, Piedmont Lodge No. 447 Friday night subscribed the sum of $250, following an address by Robert H. Jones, Jr., president of the home, and the reading of a communication from Dr. William P. Stuchell, president of the Masonic lodge.

Both Mr. Jones and Dr. Stuchell, in his letter, made strong appeals for financial assistance for the home, stating that owing to the dilapidated condition of the present building and the urgent necessity of installation of plumbing and heating fixtures, funds were needed immediately.

It is expected that other Masonic lodges will follow the generous attitude of Piedmont lodge and the funds will be forthcoming soon to complete the work.

COMMISSIONS OPEN IN REGULAR ARMY

An opportunity for citizens to become commissioned officers of the regular army will soon be offered by the war department, according to announcements made Friday. An examination for the appointment of second lieutenants will be held throughout the country on September 4, and it is believed that there will be vacancies in the army for every qualified man.

To be informed of the full details concerning examination and appointment, it is necessary that candidates consult the nearest recruiting station. There have been sent to all military posts and stations. The information is available in Atlanta at the office of the commanding general, fourth corps area.

The number of second lieutenants now with the colors is said to be exceptionally small, and the army proposition provides for 1,771 officers of this rank.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

Indicted on Charge Of Trying to Steal Supply of Gasoline

Among a large number of indictments returned by the Fulton superior jury Friday was one charging Ernest Griggs and Oliver Buice with a new form of burglary.

According to the testimony before the jury, Ernest, who is 20 and Oliver, who is only 16, broke into the office of the Munn Sign and Advertising company, 103 Luckie street, then drove their car into the place and were filling it with gasoline when caught in the act by the policeman.

Buice admitted the burglary, it was stated, and involved Douglas McQuire and himself in previous burglaries at the company's place.

T. B. Byrd, secretary of a negro lodge, was indicted for larceny after trust. It is alleged in the indictment that he was intrusted with $74.80 to send to the headquarters in America and appropriated it to his own use.

DOCTOR ORDERED WOMAN OBEYED

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and is Now Well

Chicago, Illinois.—"You surely gave women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous I kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I can recommend your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."

Mrs. ADRIAN TOMSHECK, 10657 Wash. Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

There is nothing very strange about the doctor directing Mrs. Tomsheck to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There are many physicians who do recommend it and highly appreciate its value.

Women who are nervous, run down, and suffering from women's ailments should give this well-known root and herb medicine a trial. Mrs. Tomsheck's experience should guide you towards health.

No. 42—Late Stuart "Turned" Chairs.

In the second half of the seventeenth century, especially right after the restoration of Charles II in 1660, it became the fashion to make the chair frames much lighter than they had been before. The seat was upholstered in a way corresponded with the "turned" table in point of time and general style, was one of the lighter types that came into vogue in both England and America.

Its lines were somewhat like those of the earlier "leather" chair, but the upper part of the back, instead of being upholstered, had a number of turned spindles. Not only were the front legs and front stretchers turned, but also the other stretchers and the backposts (the uprights supporting the back) were turned and the two cross rails into which the upright spindles were fastened were graced with the same sort of executed ornament. The seat was either upholstered or filled with cane. These chairs were made of oak, walnut or other woods. After the middle of the seventeenth century, walnut was used to a greater extent than previously.

The reproductions of these chairs are desirable for dining rooms and side chairs in living rooms or libraries. They may also very properly be used in bedrooms.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The A B C of Retailing," Etc.

A great many housewives buy cooking utensils with every thought in mind about the article but the most obvious: Will it be easily cleaned? Yet a little care exercised in advance will save you, oh, so many tired hours doing that household drudgery task—cleaning pots. When you buy a pot be sure that it is made of one piece of metal with rounded sides, not with seams and corners. Do not buy a utensil that has a rolled rim with a rough edge underneath, as you may be sure this will catch liquids and other foods.

Buy a pot in which the joining of utensil and handle does not offer grooves or tunnels as gathering places for particles of grease, dust and soap. Remember this: It is much more important to buy a cooking utensil with a smooth, polished inside than one with a smooth outside as your difficulty in cleaning will be chiefly on the inside.

The opening of any kitchen article should be wide enough to permit easy access to every part of the utensil. For instance, compare the old-fashioned tea kettles with the modern kind, made of smooth, non-absorbent material that has a large enough opening at the top to permit the housekeeper to put her whole hand in it. Unless you can put your whole hand in a cooking utensil that will contain food, it is going to be hard to clean.

You may not think that much consideration is needed in buying kitchen lines—but Monday's talk will help you to know better.

FEAR FATALITIES
IN BLAST IN CAFE

Kansas City, July 28.—Several persons were reported injured and two buildings damaged and set fire to by an explosion in the downtown district. Plate glass windows in store buildings for a block around were shattered.

First reports were that the explosion took place in a restaurant. Many persons were said to have been eating in the restaurant at the time but it is not known whether all of those escaped because the building was demolished by the explosion and took fire soon afterward.

The first definite report of a fatality in connection with the explosion was when a fireman was killed by a "time" bomb. Witnesses to the explosion, however, said that it would have been impossible for all of the persons in the restaurant to escape. A rooming house occupied the second story of the building.

NARCOTIC CHARGES FOR AUGUSTA MEDICO

Augusta, Ga., Special.—(Special.) Dr. H. W. Davis, 926 Broad street, well-known Augusta physician, was bound over to a higher court by U. S. Commissioner Skinner Friday morning on charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

He was released on bond of $1,000. The case was worked up by Dr. Y. T. Allen, narcotic inspector for the state of Georgia. The government alleges that Dr. Davis falsified drugs from the Augusta drug company.

It is contended by Dr. Allen that Dr. Davis used a carbon to make a duplicate copy of the order, and that in four instances he raised the original from 100 grains to 1,000 grains by adding a naught, while the copy kept a record showed 100 grains. The doctor admitted at the preliminary hearing, according to the commissioner, that he did not keep a record of the manner in which he dispensed this drug, contending that he did not know such was required by law.

Hutcheson Urges
Action on School
Building Plans

Scoring the bond commission and city council for holding up action in erection of the girls' senior high school, by reason of their divided opinion as to selection of a site, and expressing disapproval of utilizing any portion of public parks for school purposes, Carl F. Hutcheson, member of the board of education, in a formal statement Friday urged that immediate action be taken to expedite the school program.

In his statement Hutcheson declares that "a battle royal has been waged between the good citizens of three wards" over certain sites that have been offered for the school, and that "it is high time something is being done." His statement follows:

"Selection of a site for the girls' senior high school has caused a long delay. The people of Atlanta are demanding action. The supervising architect is being held in check and cannot go forward. I am not passing the buck, but in view of the undoubted fact that only the second, third and eleventh wards of Atlanta, insofar as I am able to determine, have evinced any interest as to just where the edifice should be erected, and in view of the fact that a battle royal has been waged between the good citizens of these three wards, I am certain that a common location could be recommended at least by a called joint meeting of these wards for a final decision.

"I have voted for the Vanira-Capitol avenue site. I have voted for the Jackson site, south of Grant park, both places being selected by the board of education, only to be defeated by the bond commission or city council, and it is high time something is being done.

"The northern section of Grant park will be contested by the Grant heirs or citizens at large; hence more delay. Not only the invasion of public parks is poor business from an economical, prophetic and practical viewpoint, and we should refrain from taking from the people their breathing space.

"Let us select a common ground somewhere and build."

HARMONY IS URGED
BY STATE LEADERS

Los Angeles, July 28.—Does the blue blood of Patrick Henry and that of the almost illiterate Commodore Vanderbilt?

Ernest Burroughs Fontaine, interpretive dancer, during his family refused to allow him to marry her, brought up this question by her statement that the blood of the Henrys and Calhouns courses through her veins.

"Really, I can't see how Mrs. Whitney can object," she said. "Sonny's great grandfather and her grandfather was a ferry boatman and his wife was a ferrykeeper at New Brunswick, N. J."

Gustavus Myers in his "History of American Fortunes" terms the founder of the Vanderbilt fortune as "a rugged, headstrong, untamable, illiterate youth."

"Is there any reason," asked Miss Fontaine, "why I, with the illustrious Patrick Henry and the famous John C. Calhoun as my ancestors, should acknowledge the social superiority of a family descended from a boatman with a ferrykeeper wife?"

Miss Fontaine declares that her grandfather is a Virginia judge. She was born on a plantation near Hearn, Texas. She was graduated from the fashionable Gorton school, in Lake Forest, Ill., in 1914, and shortly thereafter took up a dancing career. She is suing young Whitney to establish the parentage of her 18-month-old son, whom she has named after him.

She charges that she and "Sonny," as young Whitney is called, loved each other, and would have been married but for the caste objections of his mother, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

MAYOR KEY SPEAKS TO BRITT CRAIG POST

Paying a tribute to the memory of Britt Craig, in whose honor Atlanta's World War Volunteer Legion post is named, Mayor James L. Key spoke to 150 members and candidates for membership of the post on the roof of the Cecil hotel last night.

Willard Cope, commander of the post, introduced Mayor Key and also J. A. Alexander, state commander of the volunteer organization, and P. F. Foddrill, state adjutant. Mr. Cope told of long association with Britt Craig in newspaper circles in Atlanta and of how he represented the ultimate in patriotism and valor.

Craig was for several years a member of the Constitution staff, resigning to volunteer his services in the war. He died within a few months after the armistice, while employed on a New York newspaper.

Governor Thomas W. Hardwick will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the post, which will be held on the Cecil roof on August 11. More than 100 Atlanta boys who volunteered their services in the war are already members of the post and many others are expected to be added to the ranks within the being future, according to Commander Cope.

TWO MEN BOUND OVER ON FORGERY CHARGES

Herbert Leary, 24, of Augusta, and T. A. Strother, of 64 East Fair street, were bound over by Recorder Johnson to the state court Friday afternoon on charges of forgery. Leary's bond was fixed at $500, while Strother's was assessed at $1,000.

Strother is said to have forged the name of a well-known local real estate man to a check and cashed it at a downtown restaurant. He was arrested by City Detectives Gresham and Young.

Leary was arrested by Special Officers Ennis and Story, after he is said to have obtained several articles at a local hardware store on an order purported to have been signed by Captain Daly, of the local Salvation Army post.

Blood Will Tell.

(From Adventure Magazine.)
When General Hancock learned his camp in the Indian spring of 1867 he was waited on at the outset by some Cheyenne chiefs and asked to hold a council. Among other matters brought up for readjustment was one of two Indian children, supposed to be survivors of the Chivington massacre at Sand Creek, Colorado. Taken as war prizes by the Cheyennes, they were placed in homes and educated. Because of their extreme youth it seemed an easy task to eradicate the "Injun" and bring them up in the white man's road.

One of the two, a boy, was taken east. The other, a girl, was placed with a family near Denver. The government had promised by treaty to return such, and the boy and girl, eight or nine years of age, were ordered back to their people. To all outward appearances, including habits and mannerisms, the two were like any white children. When delivered to their people they showed no desire to quit the white man's road. Inside of a year's residence with the Indians, the two lost their former, had forgotten, or at least, claimed to have forgotten, all knowledge of the English language, and were quick to avoid contact with the whites. The blood of the wild claimed its own.
